

My Festival

Terms, conditions & privacy policy

My Festival is MIF's new creative community - designed to bring you closer to the Festival, and to bring the Festival closer to you.

By joining My Festival, you'll become part of a growing network of local people interested in making a closer connection to MIF and its work. We'll keep you up to date about the Festival, inviting you to special events and asking for your help as we shape new ways to connect with MIF all year round. In return, we hope you'll share some of our Festival-inspired activities with your contacts and communities, helping to ensure that people all across the city can get involved.

Members of My Festival will keep in touch both online and in person. We ask all members to help us make My Festival an enjoyable and positive community by:

- not using My Festival as a platform for sharing and promoting third-party advertising or content that could be considered as spam, including chain letters and pyramid schemes;
- showing respect to other members and not acting in any way, either online or in person, that could be considered offensive, harmful, discriminatory, abusive, malicious or threatening;
- recognising that some members may be minors and not acting in any way that could be considered be harmful to them;
- not using My Festival in any way that could be considered hateful, misleading or discriminatory, including any activity relating to race, colour, sex, religion, nationality, ethnic or national origin, marital status, disability, sexual orientation or age; and
- reporting any inappropriate use, activity or postings relating to the My Festival community, its platforms and its activities to the Community Coordinator (myfestival@mif.co.uk).

Any inappropriate use of My Festival platforms, including our Facebook group, may result in you being removed from the community.

Privacy:

- MIF takes the privacy of all My Festival community members very seriously, and we aim to take great care with your personal information.
